Risk Factors

Product Risks

Market Risks: The value of the Notes is dependent on the value of the option which is linked to the Reference Underlying. The historical performance of the Underlying Fund should not be taken as an indication of the Underlying Fund's future performance during the term of the Notes. There can be no assurance that the Notes will achieve their investment objective. An investment in the Notes carries among a variety of risks, the inherent risks associated with fixed-income securities. Such risks include, but are not limited to:

An investment in the Underlying Fund might incur the expenses of both the Underlying Fund and any potential vehicles or accounts into which it invests.

The Underlying Fund is subject to market fluctuations. There can be no assurance that appreciation will occur or that losses will not be incurred and an investment in the Underlying Fund is intended for professional and sophisticated investors who can afford the risks inherent in this type of investment, including the loss of the entire amount invested into the derivative providing exposure to the Fund.

An investment in fixed income securities, potentially paying Coupons and securing repayment of capital at Maturity Date, bears with it, among others, the risk that the market value of the securities may go up or down in function of prevailing interest rates.

The valuation of the Underlying Fund is provided by the respective Fund Provider or other third parties. The Calculation Agent is not able to confirm the accuracy of valuations provided by any third parties.

The ability to redeem the Underlying Fund may be adversely affected by the liquidity of their portfolios.

No Regulatory Supervision: The Individual Underlying Assets may be and may contain portfolios of unregulated collective investment schemes which are not subject to any form of authorization or regulatory supervision. Investment in such schemes carries a higher potential risk.

Leverage: The Individual Underlying Assets as well as the Notes may employ leverage to increase their respective investment levels. Higher investment levels expose investors to increased risk. This may result in substantial loss of the value of the Notes.

Risks associated with Funds as Individual Underlying Assets: Where the Notes reference one or more collective investment schemes ("Funds") as Individual Underlying Assets, the investors in such Notes are exposed to the performance of such Funds. The investors will bear the risk that such performance cannot be predicted and investors should be aware that the limited availability of last sale information and quotations for funds may make it difficult for many investors to obtain timely, accurate data for the price or yield of such Funds.

The valuation of a Fund is generally controlled by the relevant Investment Manager and/or Fund Administrator. Valuations are performed in accordance with the terms and conditions governing the Fund. Such valuations may be based upon the unaudited financial records of the Fund and any accounts pertaining thereto. Such valuations may be preliminary calculations of the net asset values of the Fund and accounts. The Fund may hold a significant number of investments which are illiquid or otherwise not actively traded and in respect of which reliable prices may be difficult to obtain. In consequence, the relevant fund manager or the investment adviser may vary certain quotations for such investments held by the Fund in order to reflect its judgement as to the fair value thereof. Therefore, valuations may be subject to subsequent adjustments upward or downward. Uncertainties as to the valuation of the fund assets and/or accounts may have an adverse effect on the net asset value of the Fund where such judgements regarding valuations prove to be incorrect. A Fund, and any fund components in which it may invest, may utilise (inter alia) strategies such as short-selling, leverage, securities lending and borrowing, investment in sub-investment grade or non-readily realisable investments, uncovered options transactions, options and futures transactions and foreign exchange transactions and the use of concentrated portfolios, each of which could, in certain circumstances, magnify adverse market developments and losses. Funds, and any fund components in which it may invest, may make investments in markets that are volatile and/or illiquid and it may be difficult or costly for positions therein to be opened or liquidated. No assurance can be given relating to the present or future performance of any performance of each Fund and any fund component in which it may invest is dependent on the performance of the fund managers in selecting fund components and the management of the relevant component in respect of the fund components. No assurance can be given that these persons will succeed in meeting the investment objectives of the Fund, that any analytical model used thereby will prove to be correct or that any assessments of the short-term or long-term prospects, volatility and correlation of the types of investments in which a Fund has or may invest will prove accurate. Funds may be subject not only to market price fluctuations, but also to numerous other factors that may trigger the substitution of any relevant Fund by other constituents (which may, or may not be, another Fund). Such substitution would change the profile and composition of the Notes. If so specified in the Terms, in the event of an Extraordinary Fund Event, the Calculation Agent may replace such Affected Fund with an alternative investment, but if it is unable to select a Successor Fund and/or a date for such substitution on the terms described herein, the Calculation Agent may replace an Affected Fund or a Successor Fund, as applicable, with an index or a basket of indices, therefore changing the profile and composition of the Notes.

Fund and any fund component in which it may invest. The

Taxation Risks: The relevant tax regime for the Underlying Fund might change during the lifetime of the investment. Any increase in tax charges related to the cash flows will negatively impact the value of the Notes.

Exercise of Reasonable Discretion: In cases specified in the Prospectus, the Issuer, the Lead Manager or the Calculation Agent has discretion to determine whether certain events (such as Rebalance, Trigger Events, Adjustment Events, Extraordinary Events and similar events) have occurred and to determine the Note value or other relevant factors in such cases, or amend or terminate the Notes. Investors should be aware that any such determination may have an adverse effect on the value of the Notes and/or significantly alter the Notes' properties. Neither the Issuer nor the Lead Manager nor the Calculation Agent is liable for any consequences of having applied reasonable discretion ("billiges Ermessen") in accordance with the provisions of the Prospectus.

Early Termination: As at the Issue Date it is the intention of the Issuer to redeem the Notes at Maturity Date only. However, under circumstances outlined under Extraordinary Events, Market Disruption Events and Issuer Events ("Early Termination Events"), the Notes may be terminated at an earlier point in time ("Early Termination"). If an Early Termination Following an Early Termination Event has occurred and the determination of consequences of such events as set out in section 4.5 and 4.1 of the Prospectus is in the sole determination of the Calculation Agent. See also under 2.6 of the Prospectus "Exercise of Reasonable Discretion".

An Early Termination Following an Early Termination may occur under any market conditions and regardless if the Note value is above or below the Issue Price, the investor's initial investment and/or the Denomination times the Minimal Repayment at Maturity, as the case may be. Such an event will lead to the payment of an amount as defined in the Terms of the Notes. Following any such an event, an investor may no longer be able to realise his expectations for a future gain in the Note Value and, if applicable, will no longer participate in the performance of the Reference Underlying pursuant to the Note. In addition, following any such Early Termination, an investor may not be able to reinvest the proceeds in a structured product similar to the terminated Notes providing a yield similar to the Notes or may only be able to do so at a significantly lower yield. The Issuer may in such a case, but is under no obligation to do so, offer the investor an alternative investment product, in which the proceeds can be invested with the investment objective to return the Denomination times the Minimum Repayment at Maturity at the original Maturity Date of the Notes. Investors in the Notes should consider reinvestment risk in light of other investments available at that time.

Redemption Risks: The Redemption Amount at Maturity will be at least equal to the Denomination times the Minimum Repayment at Maturity. The specified Minimum Repayment at Maturity applies at Maturity Date and Maturity Date only, therefore the Notes may trade below par during their lifetime.

In certain market situations which negatively affect the liquidity of the Underlying Fund, Note Holders may be forced to accept interests in one or more collective investment schemes or other assets held by the Underlying Fund on account or in lieu of a cash payment of the Redemption Amount at Maturity, the Early Termination Amount or any other cash payment amount which may be specified in the Terms of the Notes. Interests in such collective investment schemes or the other assets will likely not be marketable at the time they are delivered to the Note Holders and no Investor should rely upon his ability to sell any such interests and/or assets.

Secondary Market: The Issuer cannot provide any assurances that there will be a limited daily secondary market for the Notes, nor to how the Notes will trade in the secondary market or whether such market will be liquid or illiquid.

Currency Risks: An investment in the Underlying Fund involves exposure to currencies other than the base currency of the Underlying Fund. Changes in the exchange rates may cause the value of the investment in the Underlying Fund to go up or down and may affect the value of dividends and interests earned.

To the extent that the Reference Underlying and/or the Underlying Fund in the Reference Underlying use hedging techniques, there is no guarantee that these will have the intended effect and no obligation to employ such techniques.

Investors whose reference currency is not the USD have to bear additional currency risk at Note level when investing in the Notes.

Risk factors related to Products linked to indices: In the case of Products related to indices, the market value of the Products can deviate from the performance of the Fund or the performance of the components contained in the Fund. The investor can therefore not rely on the Product being recoverable.

Risk factors related to whole-day trading of currencies and commodities: Investors should consider that in the case of Products linked to currencies or commodities as the underlying, such securities are traded 24 hours a day as a result of the time zones of Australia, Asia, Europe and America. For this reason it is possible that an event that is material in accordance with the respective Final Terms or a factor relevant for the determination of the right granted by the Product may occur or be determined outside the business hours of the place where the Products are offered and/or traded.

Risk factors related to Products linked to bonds: In the case of Products linked to bonds investors should note that bonds are subject to certain risks, inter alia, issuer risk, interest rate risk, credit risk, risk of early redemption, additional risks for subordinated bonds as well as additional risks for specific types of bonds.

Risks of Derivative Products

Derivative products are complex financial instruments, may therefore involve a high degree of risk and are intended for use only by sophisticated investors who are capable of understanding and assuming the risks involved. Before entering into any transaction, an investor should determine if these Notes are suitable with regards to the particular circumstances and should independently assess (together with a client advisor) the specific risks as described in the Prospectus and any other legal, regulatory or credit consequences. The Issuer makes no representation as to the suitability or appropriateness of these Notes for any particular investor. This document does not replace a personal discussion with a client advisor, which is tailored to your requirements, investment objectives, experience, knowledge and circumstances and which is recommended by the Issuer before the investment decision.

Issuer Risks

Investors bear the credit risk of the Issuer. The Note value is dependent not only on the development of the Reference Underlying, but also on the general assessment of the Issuer's creditworthiness, which may vary over the terms of the Notes. This assessment generally depends on the ratings assigned to the Issuer or its affiliated companies by rating agencies such as Moody's. The Issuer is subject to the prudential supervision of the Swiss Financial Markets Supervisory Authority (FINMA). The Notes are not rated and the rating of the Issuer warrants no rating implications on the Notes. The Notes are direct, unsubordinated, unconditional and unsecured obligations of the Issuer, which particularly in the case of insolvency of the Issuer rank pari passu with each and all other current and future unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Issuer, with exception of those that have priority due to mandatory statutory provisions. An insolvency of the Issuer could lead to a partial or total loss of the initial investment.
